

Richard Lehmann practices law with the Madison, Wisconsin, firm of Boardman, Suhr, Curry & Field. His practice is entirely land use law, representing municipalities as well as private sector clients, including both developers and citizen groups. Lehmann has extensive experience in local government, having served at various times as a member of the Middleton, Wisconsin, Municipal Plan Commission; the Dane County RPC; the Madison City Council; and the Dane County Board of Supervisors. Lehmann is also a certified AICP planner, and did continuing education work as a member of the University of Wisconsin extension program for 10 years